SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 13, 1858.

ALMOST TOO ROMANTIC TO BE TRUE. For some days past considerable excitement has been felt in some circles in this community, in reference to an affair in bumble life, the particulars of which we cannot permit to pass by unnoticed. So far as we have been able to gather the facts of the case, they appear to be as follows: About three years ago, George Fry of this vicinity, became enamored of a beautiful Gipsey girl, who, in company with a number of her people, had encamped in a wood near this place. Mr. Fry's love was fondly reciprocated by the fair Gipsey, and she consented to marry him. But "true love never Alexander. did run smooth," and so it happened in And the with "a man not accustomed to gentility."

However, "Love laughs at locksmithe!"-When Mr. Fry found that he could not win the favor of the "old folks," he set about planning ways and means to steal the object of his affections. In this he was not unsuccessful. One night, when the hard hearted old man was wrapped in the arms of Morpheus, and all around was lonely and drear, Mr. Fry approached the encampment of the wanderers, and was met by her for whom his heart had long in agony sighed! Atter fondly embracing her, be solicited her to accompany him, without delay, to a village a few order and decree, that Edward Sangster, Sheriff miles distant. Without hesitation she complied with his request, and on the following ted, Receiver in this cause, who shall take day they were married. * * The rage of the charge of the tract of land of which the said old Gipsey, when he found that his daugh- Richard B. Alexander died seized, and rent out ter had "eloped," can better be imagined the same for the period of one year from the than described. Nothing could soothe his date of this decree. But, before entering upon temper save the return of his child. In vain the duties as Receiver, the said Sangster shall he sought for her. Nothing could be heard Finally, when he found that he himself could find no traces of her, he offered a heavy reward to the person who would discover her whereabouts, and in the presence of several "kidnappers" he exhibited large quantities of gold and silver, which induced them to make the effort, and a few evenings after, in a most inhuman manner, they accomplished their object. In the absence of Mr. Fry they wrested her away and delivered her over to by the foregoing decree; at which time and place, the bands of her father, unsusceptible of the all persons interested therein are hereby notified tire group of Gypsies fled from the country. A rumor said they had returned to England, from whence they hailed.

Two years noiselessly glided by, and nothing was heard by Mr. Fry from his absent wife, although he long cherished the hope that she would escape from her "tyrannical parent," and return to him whom she loved. love for his Gipsey wife. It atpears, by the way, that Mr. Fry's second wife was a "widow;" that her husband went to California some years ago, and soon after his arrival there it was rumored that he was murdered.
